MEMORANDUM OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The object of this Bill is to amend the Constitution of Kenya to address issues arising from its implementation, specifically the need to resolve issues of divisive elections and promote gender equity in governance; strengthen the structure of devolution and increase resource allocation to the counties; broaden mechanisms for all the people of Kenya benefit from economic growth; harmonise certain roles and functions of the bicameral legislature; fortify national ethos by specifying the responsibilities of citizens; and strengthen accountability on public resources and the fight against corruption.

In embarking on this constitutional amendment process, the people of Kenya reaffirm their conviction in the words of the preamble to the Constitution asserting the supremacy of the Almighty God in shaping the destiny of the nation.

The proposed constitutional reforms originate from the views of citizens expressed through the Building Bridges Initiative (the BBI). Through the BBI, citizens from all corners of the country shared their concerns and views on issues ranging from their responsibilities and rights, national ethos and responsible citizenship, corruption, productivity and shared prosperity, devolution, divisive elections, ethnic antagonism, inclusivity and security, among others. This Bill focuses on these issues, with an overriding objective of promoting a cohesive society and to further the ideals of a united, prosperous and just nation.

CLAUSES

The Bill seeks to amend Chapter Two of the Constitution on formative aspects of the Republic to address regional integration, cohesion, shared prosperity and the centrality of the economy. The aspiration is to enhance Kenya's standing and leadership in the region and to balance production and sharing.

Clause 2 of the Bill proposes to insert a new Article 10A (Regional integration and cohesion) into the Constitution to recognise integration and cohesion of the eastern Africa region and Africa as integral towards achieving national economic goals. The provision obligates the State to take policy and legislative measures for the attainment of this ideal.

Clause 3 of the Bill proposes to insert a new Article 11A (Economy and shared prosperity) into the Constitution so as to anchor the aspiration of a new economic model based on value creation and that provides equitable opportunities for all the people, promotes industrialization and supports small and micro enterprises.

The Bill seeks to amend Chapter Three of the Constitution on Citizenship to introduce a new Article on the responsibilities of a citizen to enhance patriotism and set out the duties of a citizen to the country and to fellow citizens.

Clause 4 of the Bill proposes to insert a new Article 18A (Responsibilities of a citizen) into the Constitution to inculcate virtues and engender the principles of national ethos, comprising the spirit of oneness, honesty and integrity and to set out moral principles to be adhered to by every citizen. The responsibilities include the duty to promote harmonious living with other citizens, to pay taxes and contribute to national development, among others. This Article seeks to give life to the words of our national anthem that when the individual thrives, the country thrives.

The Bill seeks to amend Chapter Four of the Constitution on the Bill of Rights to provide a constitutional underpinning for privacy of personal data of citizens as an emerging area in human rights owing to technological advancement.

Clause 5 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 31 (Privacy) to incorporate the right for the protection of personal data of citizens. The proposed amendment protects personal data of citizens in view of the advancement and adoption of digital technology by a large percentage of the population and boosts the taming of surveillance capitalism.

The Bill seeks to amend Chapter Six of the Constitution on Leadership and Integrity to strengthen the fight against corruption by providing a mechanism for expeditious conduct of investigation, prosecution and trial of corruption related matters.

Clause 6 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 80 (Legislation on leadership) to require Parliament to enact legislation establishing mechanisms to facilitate the expeditious investigation, prosecution and trial of cases relating to corruption and integrity, so as to achieve speedy disposal of such matters.

The Bill seeks to amend Chapter Seven of the Constitution on Representation of the People to enhance equity, transparency and fairness of the electoral system and specifically to give effect to the principles set out in Articles 81(d) and 89 (7) (b). The aim is to foster electoral competition hinged on ideologies and values and to ensure that every vote cast by a citizen count.

Clause 7 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 82 (Legislation on elections) to provide for Parliament to enact legislation imposing sanctions on a political party that fails to ensure that the party's list of nominated candidates comply with the principle that not more than one-thirds of such candidates are of the same gender. This is to compel political parties to facilitate the actualization of the gender rule in the electoral process from the nomination stage.

Clause 8 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 87 (Electoral disputes) to broaden modes of service of a petition relating to an election to include electronic media to take cognizance of the advancement in technology. It also provides for Parliament to enact legislation to establish mechanisms for settling disputes arising from party nominations.

Clause 9 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 88 (Independent Electoral and Boundaries Commission) to bar persons who have, within five years preceding an election, held office or stood for election as President, Deputy President, county governor or a Member of Parliament from being members of the Commission. This is to include some of the offices which were not part of this list. Further, the proposed amendment mandates the IEBC to ensure a list of candidates nominated by a political party for an election comply with the principle that not more than two thirds of the nominated candidates shall be of the same gender. Lastly, the amendment removes the jurisdiction of handling disputes arising from the nominations of candidates by political parties from IEBC and vest it in the Political Parties' Disputes Tribunal so as to achieve speedy adjudication of such disputes and streamline the mandate of the Commission.

Clause 10 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 89 (Delimitation of electoral units) to increase the number of constituencies from the current two hundred and ninety constituencies to three hundred and sixty constituencies. This is to facilitate attainment of fair representation in the National Assembly and to actualize the aspiration of the equality of the vote principle especially in the currently underrepresented electoral areas.

Clause 11 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 90 (Allocation of party list seats) to promote the principle of equality of the vote and entrench ideals of a transparent electoral process. The proposed amendment provides the candidates to be nominated from a party list for seats in the National Assembly and county assemblies shall be allotted on the basis of the total votes received by their political party as opposed to the current practice where such allocation is based on seats won by a political party.

The Bill seeks to amend Chapter Eight of the Constitution on the Legislature to remodel the parliamentary system by including the government in the National Assembly and to enhance the oversight powers of the Houses of Parliament. It is proposed that the Executive will be represented in the National Assembly by the Prime Minister, Deputy Prime Ministers, Cabinet Ministers Deputy Ministers and the Attorney-General. The office of the Leader of the Official Opposition is established. The existing disqualifications for the members of the county assemblies from being qualified to be elected as members of Parliament are removed. The Bill further proposes to expand the composition of Parliament to give effect to the gender equity and equality of the vote principles.

Clause 12 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 96 (Role of the Senate) to enhance the oversight role of the Senate on matters relating to all county revenues and their expenditures. The existing provision only mandates the Senate with oversight role on the national revenue allocated to the county governments and does not expressly extend such mandate to counties' own source of revenue and borrowings and their expenditures. This is expected to enhance accountability of counties in matters of public finance and enhance service delivery to the people.

Clause 13 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 97 (Membership of the National Assembly) to increase the number of the members of the National Assembly elected from constituencies from the current 290 members to 360 members. This is a consequence of the proposed increase in the number of constituencies. Further, this amendment proposes to include the Leader of the Official Opposition, the Cabinet Ministers who are not members of the National Assembly and the Attorney General as members of the National Assembly. Further, the amendment provides for the nomination of persons with disabilities and the youth to the National Assembly. Lastly, special top up seats are created to ensure the gender principle is actualized. However, in filling of the special top up seats, it is provided that a first priority in the nomination shall be given to candidates who contested for the constituency seats and were not elected. The affirmative action for top-up will only last for fifteen years.

Clause 14 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 98 (Membership of the Senate) to structure the membership of the Senate to achieve gender parity. It is proposed for the Senate to have ninety-four members, each county represented by a woman and a man elected by voters in the counties.

Clause 15 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 99 (Qualification and disqualifications for election as member of Parliament) to remove a disqualification barring member of the county assemblies from being qualified to be elected as members of Parliament.

Clause 16 of the Bill proposes to insert a new Article 107A (the Leader of Official Opposition) into the Constitution. It is proposed the Leader of Official Opposition shall be the person who received the second greatest number of votes in a presidential election and whose political party or coalition of parties has at least twenty-five per cent of the members of the National Assembly. Further, a Leader of Official Opposition and the Prime Minister shall not be members of the same political party.

Clause 17 of the Bill proposes to repeal and replace Article 108 (Party Leaders) with a new Article 108 (Order of precedence in the National Assembly) to provide for the new order of precedence in the National Assembly to include the Prime Minister and the Leader of Official Opposition.

Clause 18 of the Bill proposes to insert a new Article 108A (Party Leaders in the Senate) into the Constitution to constitutionalize the party leadership structure and order of precedence in the Senate.

Clause 19 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 113 (Mediation committee) to expand the period within which a Bill shall be referred to the President for assent from the current seven days to fourteen days. This is to allow for adequate time for consultations and refining of the bill by the institutions involved in the legislative process.

Clause 20 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 115 (Presidential assent and referral) to remove the voting by delegation in the Senate. This is a consequential amendment flowing from the proposed repeal of Article 123.

Clause 21 of the Bill proposes to repeal Article 123 (Decisions of Senate) to do away with the concept of voting by delegation in the Senate. This consequently results to members of the Senate having an equal vote. The amendment originates from proposed amendment of Article 98 that equalizes representation of the counties in the Senate hence making the concept of voting by delegation moot.

The Bill seeks to amend Chapter Nine of the Constitution on the Executive to broaden the executive structure to achieve inclusivity, cohesiveness, and unity for the benefit of the people. This Chapter introduces the office of the Prime Minister and two Deputy Prime Ministers, with leadership roles in the executive and Parliament. It also provides that Cabinet Ministers may be appointed from among members of the National Assembly.

Clause 22 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 130 (the National Executive) to introduce the Prime Minister and the Deputy Prime Ministers in the composition of the national executive.

Clause 23 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 131 (Authority of the President) to include the Prime Minister and Deputy Prime Ministers in the list of persons who assists the President in the exercise of the executive authority. The amendment also proposes to rename the office of Cabinet Secretary as Cabinet Minister to reflect a profile change of this office noting that some holders may be appointed from among the members of the National Assembly.

Clause 24 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 132 (Functions of the President) to mandate the President to report on the progress made towards achieving the economic and social rights guaranteed under Article 43 by submitting a report for debate to the National Assembly.

Clause 25 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 134 (Exercise of Presidential powers during temporary incumbency) as a consequential amendment of renaming the office of Cabinet Secretary as Cabinet Minister.

Clause 26 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 138 (Procedure at presidential election) to remove the condition that requires a presidential election to be cancelled and a new election held where a person nominated as a deputy president dies on or before a scheduled election. This is to ensure that a presidential election is held despite the death of a running mate of the presidential candidate to avoid uncertainty and minimize tension in a presidential election.

Clause 27 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 140 (Questions as to validity of presidential election) to increase the period during which the Supreme Court is required to hear and determine a petition on questions as to validity of a presidential election from fourteen days to thirty days. This is to provide a more realistic period of finalizing the presidential election petition and is informed by previous experience on the same.

Clause 28 of the Bill proposes to insert new Articles 151A, 151B, 151C, and 151D (The Office of the Prime Minister and Deputy Prime Ministers) to provide for the mode of appointment of the Prime Minister and the two Deputy Prime Ministers. The functions of the Prime Minister shall be to coordinate and supervise government functions. The Prime Minister is to be nominated by the President from among the elected Members of the National Assembly from a political party having a majority of Members in the National Assembly through a stipulated procedure.

The nominee shall not assume office until his or her nomination is confirmed by a resolution of the National Assembly supported by a majority vote of the members. If the second nominee for a Prime Minister proposed by the President is not confirmed, the President shall appoint the Prime Minister without reference to the National Assembly. The Prime Minister may be dismissed by the President or through a vote of no confidence in the National Assembly. The amendment further provides for the Deputy Prime Ministers to be appointed from among the Cabinet Ministers.

Clause 29 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 152 (Cabinet) to provide for a mixed cabinet with some members of the Cabinet being appointed from the members of National Assembly. The amendment further provides for the membership of the Prime Minister and Deputy Prime Ministers into the Cabinet. Lastly, the tenure of office of the Cabinet is provided, outlining that the Cabinet remains in office until the President-elect assumes office.

Clause 30 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 153 (Decision, responsibility and accountability of the Cabinet) as a consequential amendment of renaming the office of the Cabinet Secretary as Cabinet Minister. The amendment further provides that the term of office of the Cabinet lapses when the President-elect assumes offices.

Clause 31 of the Bill proposes to insert a new Article 153A (Deputy Ministers) into the Constitution to establish the office of the Deputy Ministers whose functions shall be to deputise for Cabinet Ministers in the execution of the Cabinet Ministers' functions.

Clause 32 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 154 (Secretary to the Cabinet) to remove the requirement for the vetting of the Secretary to the Cabinet by the National Assembly.

Clause 33 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 155 (Principal Secretaries) to remove the requirement for the vetting of the Principal Secretaries by the National Assembly. This is to ensure the Public service remains impartial and ready to serve the people under governments of any political formation and ensure that their accountability is administrative and technical.

Clause 34 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 156 (Attorney General) to clarify that as a member of the Cabinet, the Attorney General may be assigned by the President to perform the functions of a Cabinet Secretary.

Clause 35 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 157 (Director of Public Prosecutions) to enhance the qualification for appointment as the Director of Public Prosecution to be the same as that of a judge of the Court of Appeal.

Clause 36 of the Bill proposes to repeal Article 158 (Removal and resignation of Director of Public Prosecutions) to align the removal and resignation of the Director of Public Prosecutions with that of the constitutional commissions and independent offices. This is to reflect that the office of Director of Public Prosecutions is proposed to be included as an independent office in Chapter 15 of the Constitution.

The Bill seeks to amend Chapter Ten of the Constitution on the Judiciary to provide for more transparency in the judicial processes. The proposed amendments provide for the finality of the decisions of Court of Appeal in petitions concerning an election and limits the tenure of the president of the Court of Appeal and High Court to five years. The amendments further provide for the tenure of the Deputy Chief Justice and aligns it with that of the Chief Justice. The Bill further seeks to introduce the Judiciary Ombudsman as a non-voting member of the Judicial Service Commission.

Clause 37 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 164 (Court of Appeal) to provide for the finality of the determination by the Court of Appeal on the validity of any appeal relating to an election, other than a presidential election. The amendment further seeks to limit the tenure of the president of the Court of Appeal to a single term of five years.

Clause 38 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 165 (High Court) to limit the tenure of the president of the High Court to a single term of five years.

Clause 39 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 166 (Appointment of Chief Justice, Deputy Chief Justice and other Judges) to enhance the qualifications of the judges of the Supreme Court and the Court of Appeal relating to their experience. The amendment provides the qualification of a judge of the Supreme Court to be twenty years, a judge of the Court of Appeal to be fifteen years and that of a judge of the High Court to be ten years.

Clause 40 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 167 (Tenure of office of the Chief Justice and other judges) to provide for the tenure of office of the Deputy Chief Justice and harmonise it with the tenure of office of the Chief Justice.

Clause 41 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 168 (Removal from Office) to provide that the Judiciary Ombudsman may initiate a motion to remove a judge from office on account of complaints received from the members of the public. This enables the Judiciary Ombudsman to prosecute complaints received against a judge in the Judicial Service Commission.

Clause 42 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 171 (Establishment of the Judicial Service Commission) to include the Judiciary Ombudsman as a non-voting member of the Judicial Service Commission. The amendment further provides that elected advocates in the Commission shall not practise in the courts and tribunals in order to minimize potential instances of conflict of interest.

Clause 43 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 172 (Functions of the Judicial Service Commission) to provide a mechanism to enable the Judicial Service Commission to discipline judicial officers including judges.

Clause 44 of the Bill proposes to insert a new Article 172A (The Office of the Judiciary Ombudsman) into the Constitution to establish the Office of the Judiciary Ombudsman which shall be responsible for handling complaints on the judicial process from the members of the public.

The Bill seeks to amend Chapter Eleven of the Constitution on the Devolved Government to provide for further clarity on the nomination of members of the county assembly and powers of a county governor.

Clause 45 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 177 (Membership of county assembly) to change the nomination of candidates from being based on seats won to being based on the votes received by a political party in an election. Further, it seeks to align the term of county assemblies to the election cycle and provide that the special top-up seats shall expire after ten years, in view that affirmative action measures ought to have time limitations.

Clause 46 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 179 (County executive committees) to provide clarity that a county governor has powers to dismiss or reassign their county executive committee members. This ensures that a member of the county executive committee does not automatically vacate office when the person holding the office of the county governor becomes vacant. Further, the amendments offer leeway for the county governor to appoint members of a county assembly into the county executive committee. Lastly, it is provided that the county governors shall be accountable to their respective assemblies in the performance of their functions.

Clause 47 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 180 (Election of county governor and deputy county governor) to enhance gender parity in the governance of counties by providing for the candidate of the county governor, in nominating a deputy governor, to consider a person of the opposite gender.

Clause 48 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 188 (Boundaries of counties) to remove the voting by delegation in the Senate as a consequential amendment flowing from the proposed repeal of Article 123.

The Bill seeks to amend Chapter Twelve of the Constitution on Public Finance to streamline various public finance principles and processes to promote efficiency and ensure expenditures are directed to maximise utility. The proposals promote the actualization of the rights guaranteed under Article 43 and strengthens devolution.

Clause 49 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 202 (Equitable sharing of national and other financial laws) to provide that, where any revenue sharing in the Constitution is to be based on audited accounts and the National Assembly has not approved such accounts, the most recent audited accounts of revenue submitted by the Auditor General shall be used as the basis of revenue sharing.

Clause 50 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 203 (Equitable share and other financial laws) to expand the criteria for determining equitable share to include the need to eradicate corrupt practices and wastage of public resources the need to ensure the attainment of the economic and social rights guaranteed under Article 43 and ensure the average amount of money allocated per person to a county with highest allocation does not exceed three times the average amount per person allocated to a county with the lowest allocation. It further increases the percentage of funds allocated to county governments from fifteen to thirty-five to strengthen devolution and ensure that county governments have adequate funds to carry out their operations.

Clause 51 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 204 (Equalisation Fund) to increase the life span of the Fund from twenty years to thirty years from the effective date.

Clause 52 of the proposes to insert new Article 206A (Constituencies Development Fund) into the Constitution to anchor the Constituencies Development Fund, which shall be used to facilitate the performance of national government functions within the constituencies.

Clause 53 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 207 (Revenue Funds for county governments) to provide for an Act of Parliament to establish a county assembly fund as one of the funds in a county.

Clause 54 of the Bill proposes to insert new Article 207A (Ward Development Fund) into the Constitution to establish the Ward Development Fund. The Ward Development Fund shall comprise of at least five per cent of all the county government's revenue in each financial year and ensures equitable distribution and development in the wards of money allocated or collected by the county government.

Clause 55 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 215 (Commission on Revenue Allocation) to reduce the number of members nominated by political parties represented in the Senate from five to two so as to balance the representation from the two Houses. The amendment also provides for two members to represent county governors and one person nominated by members of a statutory body responsible for professional regulation of accountants.

Clause 56 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 218 (Annual Division and Allocation of Revenue Bills) to mandate the Controller of Budget to authorise the withdrawal of up to fifty per cent of the minimum amount of the equitable share guaranteed to county governments, where the County Allocation of Revenue Act for a financial year has not been passed by Parliament before the beginning of that financial year.

Clause 57 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 220 (Form, content and timing of budgets) to require the proposed budgets of national and county governments to contain an explanation of the previous, current or proposed budgetary measures for the attainment of social and economic rights. Further, the amendments seek to impose a requirement, which will be set out in legislation, for the making of structure and development plans by national government. Currently, such an obligation is only imposed on counties. The amendment seeks to increase accountability and value for money while entrenching prudence and efficiency in the use of public resources.

Clause 58 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 224 (County appropriation Bills) to free the preparation of county annual budgets from being based on the Division of Revenue Bill. This is in light of the fact that a county government can prepare its budget based on its own sources of revenue.

Clause 59 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 225 (Financial control) to empower the Cabinet Minister responsible for finance to stop the transfer of funds to a state organ or other public entity or a county government where there are serious and persistent material breaches of the set out financial control measures, and to table the matter before the relevant House of Parliament for approval.

Clause 60 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 228 (Controller of Budget) to shift the approval of the Controller of Budget from the National Assembly to the Senate.

Clause 61 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 230 (Salaries and Remuneration Commission) to restructure the membership of the Commission to make it lean and effective. Further, the Bill proposes to add the Commission with an added mandate to set, review, rationalise and harmonise the remuneration of all State Officers and public officers. Further, the Commission shall determine and harmonise the rates paid by national and county governments to professional consultants for services rendered.

The Bill proposes to amend Chapter Thirteen of the Constitution on the Public Service to remove the national security organs from the ambit of the Public Service Commission.

Clause 62 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 234 (Functions and Powers of the Public Service Commission) to remove the national security organs as one of the offices in the public service to which the Public Service Commission has no mandate.

Clause 63 of the Bill proposes to insert a new Article 237A (The Youth Commission) into the Constitution. The amendment proposes to establish and provide for the functions of the Youth Commission to, among others, promote the implementation of the rights of the youth under Article 55.

The Bill seeks to amend Chapter Fourteen of the Constitution on National Security to merge to provide clarity on the unity of command in the Service.

Clause 64 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 240 (Establishment of the National Security Council) to include the Prime Minister as a member of the National Security Council.

Clause 65 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 243 (Establishment of the National Police Service) to include the Directorate of Criminal Investigations as a third arm of the National Police Service.

Clause 66 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 245 (Command of the National Police Service) to provide clarity on the centrality of command by the Inspector General of Police to the Police Service. The amendment further provides that the Directorate of Criminal Investigations shall be headed by a Deputy Inspector-General.

Clause 67 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 246 (National Police Service Commission) to harmonise certain functions of the Commission with the function of centrality of command by the Inspector-General of police.

The Bill seeks to amend Chapter Fifteen of the Constitution on commissions and independent offices to require constitutional commissions to enhance corporate governance practices in managing the affairs of the commissions and independent offices and to include the Director of Public Prosecutions as an independent office.

Clause 68 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 248 (Commissions and Independent Offices) to include the Director of Public Prosecutions as an independent office to enhance the independence and budgetary autonomy of the office.

Clause 69 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 250 (Composition, appointment and terms of offices) to reduce the number of members of the commissions, whose membership is not specified in the main text, from nine to seven. This is to create lean commissions and reduce the recurrent expenditures of the commissions.

The Bill proposes to amend Chapter Sixteen of the Constitution on General Provisions.

Clause 70 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 259 (Construing the Constitution) to provide for the filling of a vacancy of an appointive office under the Constitution, and requires that the process of replacing the holder of that office shall commence at least six months before the lapse of the term of the office holder and conclude before the lapse of the term of that office holder. This is to ensure seamless transition and fewer disruptions in the running of the appointive constitutional state offices.

Clause 71 of the Bill proposes to amend Article 260 (Interpretation) to include the offices of the Prime Minister, Deputy Prime Minister, Deputy Minister and Judiciary Ombudsman in the definition of the term “state office”.

The Bill amends the Third Schedule to the Constitution on National Oaths and Affirmations.

Clause 72 of the Bill proposes to amend the Third Schedule to include the Prime Minister and Deputy Prime Minister as state officers who should take the oath or make a solemn affirmation as prescribed in the Schedule. Similarly, the amendment seeks to include the Deputy Chief Justice as Oaths for The Chief Justice/President of the Supreme Court, Judges of the Supreme Court, Judges of the Court of Appeal, and Judges of the High Court.

Clause 73 of the Bill provides that Parliament shall enact any legislation required by this Act to be enacted to govern a particular matter within the period specified in the First Schedule. It provides that the Kenya Law Reform Commission and the Attorney General shall prepare the relevant Bills for tabling before Parliament as soon as is reasonably practicable to enable Parliament to enact the legislation within the specified period in the First Schedule commencing on the date this Act comes into force.

Clause 74 of the Bill provides for the transitional and consequential provisions to ensure the seamless implementation of the provisions of this Act, especially in view of some constitutional commissions and state offices that have been reconstituted.

The First Schedule lists the legislation proposed for Parliament to enact and recommended time specification in order to ensure the full implementation of the proposed amendments to the Constitution.

The Second Schedule outlines the transition and consequential provisions on various aspects including saving terms of office of various institutions restructured in the Bill. The schedule further guides on the manner of delimitation in respect of additional seventy constituencies that have been proposed and offers a further savings to the protected constituencies.
